Bengaluru: Astrotalk, an app to consult astrologers, is considering launching an initial public offering in the Indian market in 2025-26, founder and chief executive Puneet Gupta told ET. The company currently claims to have transactions totalling Rs 600 crore on its platform on an annual recurring basis, with 100% year-on-year revenue growth over the last three years. Astrotalk is targeting ₹2,000 crore in revenue in the next couple of years, he told ET, adding: "We will be doing the IPO prep once we hit these numbers. As of now, we are still evaluating options."

People in the know told ET that the company has held early-stage talks with bankers such as JM Financial and others over the IPO.
